Notes from the Support Desk

A core feature of ACE is the ability to copy or cut session rows using AceRow format. The AceRow format saves the column information to the clipboard which allows ACE to paste values to their intended cells, regardless of the Input Sheet's column arrangement. The AceRow format applies when pasting rows in the current ACE session or between different ACE sessions.

To perform an AceRow copy, be sure to click the session row number to select the entire row. When session row cells are selected individually and copied, ACE does not store the column information.

Contact ACEIT_Support@Tecolote.com for any questions regarding functionality of AceRow format.

ACEIT Training

We continue to offer our open registration classes in Washington, D.C. for students who prefer an in person training experience. These classes are conducted with COVID-19 safety protocols, for the safety of our instructors and students. Upcoming open registration offerings include ACEIT for Model Builders starting June 7, 2022 and ACEIT for Advanced Model Builders starting July 12, 2022.

Click the options below to see schedules and register for our upcoming training opportunities. For questions contact ACEIT_Train@Tecolote.com.
