New Online Help Article
Dot Notation for Referencing Column Data

Our latest Online Help article focuses on dot notation and its applications throughout ACE sessions. One of the most important applications is its ability to reference values stored in Custom Columns, which reduces the need to define new variables in the session rows.

Read the article to learn more about dot notation structure, its applications, and even a specific use case!

ACEIT 8.0: Uninstall previous versions of 8.0 before installing new 8.0 builds

Date: 24 Feb 2021
Version: all versions of 8.0
Applications: ACE, CO$TAT

Problem:
8.0.67.0 is missing some files required to allow exports of CERs from CO$TAT to ACE. Hotfix 8.0-002 (released 22 Jul 2019) fixed this issue for 8.0.67.0, and later versions of 8.0 included the necessary files. However, if you install 8.0.67.0 and then install a later version of 8.0 without first uninstalling version 67, the necessary files to fix the issue are not added and the problem remains.

Solution:
Uninstall previous versions of ACEIT 8.0 before installing new versions.

Please contact ACEIT_Support@tecolote.com if you have any questions.
